Organization Description
Educating for Freedom in Schools (EFIS) is a public 501(c)(3) youth development organization. EFIS’s mission is to provide integrated educational enrichment that builds literacy, social understanding, and parent engagement skills to create successful children, strong leaders, and great communities. Our vision is that all children in Kalamazoo County fulfill their full potential in life through access to, and preparedness for, a college education, lifelong learning, leadership, and citizenship. EFIS is guided by the Children’s Defense Fund (CDF) Freedom Schools® best practices model for literacy, youth leadership development, cultural enrichment, parent empowerment, civic engagement, social action, and health and wellness. In June 2011, Harvard Family Research Project released a report called “Year-Round Learning: Linking School, Afterschool, and Summer Learning to Support Student Success”. The CDF Freedom Schools® program was one of 14 innovative national programs highlighted that have demonstrated success in providing quality learning opportunities for youth.
